

Dalia Dorta - Speakers
Director of Latino Outreach
Environment for the Americas

Dalia Dorta moved from her home country, Venezuela, to Colorado in 2009. She currently works as Director of Latino Outreach at Environment for the Americas. Dalia is a "mover and a shaker" in the Colorado Latino communities, where she has worked to help improve living situations and provide leadership training from elementary to college students and families. She runs EFTA's programs that connect Latino youth to nature through outdoor experiences and develops intern training, including the Latino Heritage Internship Program. She is also a civil engineer with a BA in Education, a Master's in Business Administration, and over 25 years of marketing and strategic planning experience. Dalia serves in the Advisory Council of the Latino Cultural Art Center, the Latino Audience Alliance, and is a member of DAM Alianza de las Artes Latinoamericanas.
